3. The silhouette of a Yak-9 plane was painted in black on the door of a hangar, and that of an LA fighter in yellow on the door of another hangar.
4. There was no concrete runway. Only the aprons in front of the hangars and the taxiway leading to the landing field are concrete.
5. Seven garages for tank trucks were being built about a thousand feet east of the landing field border. Two 50 x 10 foot earth bunkers covered by a 5-foot layer of soil, have been constructed about a hundred feet in front of the garages. About 80 x 53-gallon barrels were stored near the bunkers.

8. The airfield layout is shown in the attached sketch.

25X1A Comment:

Report confirms the previously reported A-20s and two different fighter types stationed at the KOETHEN airfield. Thus, the field is assumed still to be occupied by both an air reconnaissance regiment, equipped with A-20s and LA aircraft, and a 25X1C fighter regiment, equipped with Yaks.
